Recent Freelance Work @ werdjs.co.uk

I was approached by the team at Werdjs to completely redesign their web offering.

From an initial consultation I ascertained their current clientele, business goals and design ideas. Their expectations were high and I was keen to deliver, and collaborated with them to produce a design and final product that truly stands out amongst their competition.

Since launch they have shared customer feedback and booking data showing they have not only increased in bookings, but are getting a consistently higher level of prestige clients choosing their highest package.
